Editorial: Special Thank You, Congrats, and Some People

Key Largo Fire Operations Chief Jay Ogden presented Christian Buckles the Coconut Telegraph "Hero" award to in honor of his father Chuck.

Special Thank You!
Michelle Buckles, The Coconut Telegraph and WORZ Ocean Reef Radio would like to thank everyone that donated their time, product and money to make both benefits for the Buckles family a huge success. A special thank you to Operations Chief Jay Ogden of the Key Largo Fire Department for presenting the Coconut Telegraph "Hero" award to Christian Buckles in honor of his father Chuck who lost his life saving his wife and child on New Years Day. The look on Chief Ogden's face says it all. Once again our caring Upper Keys community came together to help.
Congratulations American Legion!
Congratulations to the American Legion on their new location. There will be a grand opening party March 20th. These veterans worked very hard to bring this great asset to our community together so please stop in and check it out.

Some People...
Years ago, when I was with another newspaper a friend and I held a benefit for a boy in need of surgery. When it came time to take a photo of the check presenting one of the people who was supposed to be in it was late. We waited 20 minutes on a cold rainy day before finally taking the picture. Come to find out, the person was late because she was having her picture taken by another paper so it looked to the public like she hosted the benefit when in reality she was only a very small part. Some people will do anything to get their picture in the paper. But ask yourself this, what's more important, a rich person who donates a little money or a poor person that gives all they've got?

Progressive Wine Dinner

A Taste Here, a Taste There and Always a Safe Ride Home

The progressive dinner was a food and wine delight! First stop, Sundowners, at mile marker 104, for champagne and hors d'oeuvres. The menu included fried wild mushrooms with white truffle oil, Cilantro Lime Chicken Satay with homemade peanut sauce and Rosemary Garlic Marinated Shrimp. All to die for. The food complimented by lots of Charles de Fere Blanc de Blanc, France. Our limo from Paradise Transportation was waiting and about 30 of us piled in. Our next stop Pontunes Marina Tiki Bar and Grille at mile marker 107 where we were greeted by our chef's, Oscar and Stefan. The Leche de Tigre (Tiger milk) a Peruvian ceviche, promises to "awaken the spirit within". And the braised artichoke was an artichoke filled with florida lobster, topped with tomato hash and garnished with fried leek oil, a gourmets delight. At this stop the Louis

Benard Cotes du Rhone Rose, France was flowing.

I didn't want to leave but it was time to head to our next stop, Jimmy Johnson's Big Chill at mile marker 104. There we were greeted by our host Mark Charles. We were served a healthy portion of Malanga Root Crushed Mahi with Grilled Mango and Papaya Relish, a fish connoisseurs delight complimented by Anton Iby Zweigelt, Austria.

Again, too soon, we have to go to our next destination. Our limo dropped us off at Taster's Grille in Tavernier. The menu was a Braised Veal Short Rib over Creamy Stilton Cheese Polenta topped with Roasted Shallot and Charred Rosemary Demi Glace. That is a lot of words for what was actually a large bone with a tasteful but slimy piece of meat slightly bigger than a quarter. Maybe that is why they call it Taster's, because that is all we got, a taste. At that point we didn't care, the DeLoach California Merlot made up for it.

Next it was time to finished where we started. We headed back to Sundowners to enjoy dessert with our gracious host Bobby Stoky. We indulged in desert Profiteroles, Choux Pastries filled with French Cream and drizzled with Dark Chocolate. Fresh made Baby's coffee and Batasiolo d' Asti, Piemonte, Italy. Heavenly!

At the nights end some of us realize that our cars had too much to drink and were abandon it for a safe, humorous and delightful ride home with Mom's Taxi, 305-852-600. A fabulous time was had by all!

For info on the next Progressive Wine Dinner call Sue Finney 305-394-3736. A special thanks to Premier Beverage for the wine lessons.

Junior Bankers Visit Centennial Bank

Earlier this month, Centennial Bank welcomed Key Largo School students Landon Gardner and Antoneya Gaston to be Junior Bankers for a day at the Key Largo branch. In addition to manning the drive thru, Landon and Antoneya counted money, learned how checks are deposited, and the steps that make up various bank transactions. The highlight of the day, however, was the chance to hold $1000 dollars.

Drinker of the Month Dr. Tom

As suggested by one of our loyal readers we have added "Drinker of the Month" and our first volunteer is Dr. Tom the world famous boat Guru.

The criteria is not based on how much someone drinks but rather personality and the attitude they have toward their servers and fellow happy hour friends. Only drinkers who never forget to say "Hello" to their bartenders, take time to ask "How are you", and never forget to tip can hold this title.

If you're in the business of serving drinks or know a drinker who qualifies nominated them for the Coconut Telegraph's 'Drinker of the Month' for our coming issues. Cheers!

Artists of the Month

Pantaleo & Crocker

Keys to Life Gallery

The Florida Keys are home to many of the finest artists in the world. They are attracted to our islands because of our laid-back atmosphere and the abundant beauty of our land. But there are few that can capture the vibrancies and spirit of the Keys as well as Pasta Pantaleo. He is truly in a class of his own.

I learned of Pantaleo through my friend Teresa Crocker who makes beautiful handcrafted driftwood frames. She teamed up with Pantaleo and they made a trade, art for frames. The combination of Pantaleo's Keys to Life painting of the sunlit mangroves in Teresa's handcrafted driftwood frame is absolutely stunning.

Pantaleo is a premier marine life artist who "is focused on capturing the visions, both experienced and dreamed, that he shares with sport fishing anglers and art lovers everywhere." To view Pantaleo's work go to his website ArtByPantaleo.com or stop by his gallery in Islamorada on the Oceanside at mile marker 84.7 to witness him bring the beauty of our islands to life on canvas.

Pantaleo and Crocker both donated their work to the benefit for the Buckles family.

Loving the Light Color Therapy

Color therapy allows us to harness the power of individual color frequencies to heal our bodies and allow harmony.

The wondrous displays of color that define the world around us are manifestations of light and, as such, each possesses a unique frequency. The attraction we feel to certain colors is not a matter of pure chance—we experience the beneficial affects of color even while blindfolded. We are naturally drawn to those colors that lift our mood, expand consciousness, and restore health. Color therapy, also known as chromo therapy, allows us to harness the power of individual color frequencies to heal the body, positively influence our emotions, and achieve a renewed sense of inner harmony through sympathetic resonance. Colors do not directly affect the composition of our physical, mental, or aura, but they noninvasively alter the vibrational characteristics of diverse elements of the self so that each resonates at its proper healthy frequency. It is easy to overlook the colors that saturate our personal and professional environments. Yet these, whether in the form of the paint on our walls or the clothing we wear, can influence our thoughts, behaviors, and feelings to an extraordinary degree. The colors we like best are often those that we need most in our lives, and there are many ways we can utilize them. Basking under a colored light bulb or gazing at an area of color can stimulate or calm us depending on the color we choose. For example, red stimulates the brain, circulatory systems, and first chakra, giving us an energy boost, while blue acts on the throat chakra, soothing the body and mind. And when we do not feel drawn to any one color, we can still benefit from the healing effects of white light, which is an amalgamation of all the colors of the visible spectrum. It is a cleansing color, one that can purify us on many levels. Human beings evolved to delight in vivid sunsets and rainbows, to enjoy the sensations awakened by particularly eye-catching color, and to decorate our spaces and ourselves with bright colors. In essence, we evolved to love the light because of its harmonizing influence on every aspect of the self. When we pay attention to the potential affects of individual colors, we can modify our spaces, wardrobes, and habits to ensure that we introduce the colors that speak to us most deeply in our everyday lives.

Bartender of the Month Mindy Cotten at Coconut's

Not many people come as highly recommended as Mindy Cotten for the Coconut Telegraph's Bartender of the Month. Cotton is a Florida native originally from Cocoa Beach who served four years in active duty with the Marine Corps and did two tours in Iraq as a diesel mechanic.

She is the oldest of five and when she became inactive she moved to the Keys to help her Mom with the kids. Cotten is not only strikingly beautiful but she's a girl with priorities as illustrated in an enormous tattoo across her chest, a heart with a ribbon through it that simply says Family/Friends. In addition to working behind the bar she is also attending college at the Art Institute of Miami as a photography major.

A five-year veteran bartender she calls herself a 'picky bartender'. "I want my drinks to look as good as they taste," says Cotten.

When I tell her that her boss, Coconut's owner Colleen, highly recommended her she smiles and says, "I love it when Colleen is here, she really gets things done!"

Coconut's manager Roger says, "Mindy is a spectacular addition to our staff. Her Military Service background combined with her skills in the service industry provide for excellent customer service."

So stop in and see Mindy Cotten at Coconut's on Tuesdays for Free Taco's and Open Mic Night; Wednesdays for Ladies Night; sometimes on Friday; but always Sundays during the day.

field research into the process. Launched in February 2006 and utilizing advanced photographic identification and data collection techniques, the study has cataloged over 225 individual dolphins. The project will be featured in the September issue of National Geographic Besides green networking with some very interesting people from all over the Keys, an update on GLEE's programs and progress in 2009 and the presentations to the contest winners, Chris Desmond, founder and director of Sea Excursion's 10,000 Islands Dolphin Project, is the featured speaker at the event.

A Marco Island eco-tour operator, Desmond also serves on the advisory board of The International Ecotourism Society. Desmond will share his views on the future of ecotourism as it relates to the responsibilities and opportunities presented by climate change. His Dolphin Project involves educating travelers and integrating today's technologies and

Useless Irish Facts

An odd Irish birthday tradition is to lift the birthday child upside down and give his head a few gentle bumps on the floor for good luck. The number of bumps should allegedly correspond with the child's age plus one.

A traditional Irish hangover cure was to be buried up to the neck in wet river sand.

A golf course made by hand. County Mayo's Carne Golf Links which was built between 1987 and 1993 was constructed by farmers using spades and rakes.

Catherine Kelly, who died in 1785 was allegedly the smallest Irish woman ever. With a total height of just 34 inches and weighing only 8 pounds, she was known as the "Irish Fairy".

The national symbol of Ireland is the Celtic Harp, not the shamrock.

Aran Island sweaters have a variety of "family weaves". These were developed because when a fisherman drowned his sweater was often the only thing washed up on shore. And the distinctive weave was often the only way a family would know their loved one was lost.

It is not the custom in Ireland to wear green ties, hats or clothes on St. Patrick's Day. A shamrock sprig on the lapel is traditional.

The Soldier's Song, written by Peadar Kearney in 1907 (the music was in collaboration with Patrick Heeney) was formally adopted as the national anthem in 1926, replacing the earlier "God Save Ireland".

Punt is the Irish name for Pound; Píngin was Irish for an old penny; Florin was a coin worth two old shillings (24 old pence).

The original Guinness Brewery in Dublin, Ireland has a six thousand year lease.

The O'Connell Bridge in Dublin is the only traffic bridge in Europe as wide as it is long. But O'Connell street is not as wide as it is long.

Dear Anny Bannany 'High Octane Panties'

Dear Anny Bananny,

About a week ago, I was very disturbed to read in an article in the Free Press by Robert Silk that an old friend that had died in a trailer fire had gasoline on his underwear. The fire was declared arson by the fire department but the police did not agree and said it was an accident! Do cops go to bed with gasoline on their panties?

Signed,
Aghast

Dear Aghast,

Anny Bananny is confused too. Of all the thousands of men Anny Bananny has married or dated, not a one of them ever went to bed with gasoline on their underwear. Heck, most of them didn't even wear any underwear! Every darn one of them had flatulence, but that's an entirely different story.

So Anny Bananny decided to test this theory and conduct her own experiment. She went to the Tom Thumb and bought 50 cents worth of gas and doused her... lower private area. Oh boy, oh boy! Anny Bananny was dancing and jumping and a hootin', and a hollerin' and a scratchin' all over the parking lot! Talk about high octane! Finally after many frenzied minutes ol' Anny fell on the ground writhing in agony. Then her eyes rolled back in her head and she stopped moving. A crowd circled around her. Someone said, "What happened?" Morgan from the Harley Shop looked over and said "Isn't it obvious? She ran out of gas!"

Seriously, there is only one way to find out. Anny Bananny is going to go visit the police department and sniff some shorts.

Yours Truly,
Anny Bananny

Coco 'Nut' Funnies

Be prepared this April Fools

Sleepers are the easiest to mess with:

Draw funny eyebrows and a moustache on their faces while they are asleep.

Place whipped cream in their hands and tickle their nose with a feather.

Place someone's hand while they are sleeping in a bowl of cold water is a sure way to make them wet their pants. Or just pour water in their bed and make them think they wet their pants.

Office pranks:

Go to the office early and tape down the ball on everyone's mouse. And watch their frustration building as they try to get to work.

Unplug your boss's keyboard and see how long it takes her or him to figure out why their computer is "frozen".

Rearrange their office furniture, desk and files. Or re-alphabetize files or your co-worker's rolodex.

Torture of family members:

Play Dr. Doolittle. Tape a walkie-talkie to your pet or hide it near where the pet is laying. Walk a safe distance away. When a family member tries to pick up or pat the pet say into your walkie-talkie in a gruff voice "I hate it when you do this to me!" See them jump with fright and shock.

Late at night fill the hair dryer with baby powder. Catch the expression on that family members face when their clean hair turns white as snow.

Try this prank on a teenager. Set the alarm clock for 3:00 a.m. and hide it under their bed.

Glue all the eggs to the carton and ask someone to make breakfast.

Put straight lemon juice in replace of the O.J.

Rubber band the handle of the spray nozzle on the kitchen sink down and aim it just right. The first person to use the sink will get a morning wake up shower.
