Chef BUCK NAKED'S
KEYS
KITCHEN

For Watching & Supporting Us!

"The Keys Kitchen Krew" has been working hard (eat'n drink'n & film'n that is) over the last yr to create a Flavorful, Fun & Funky program that showcases the Upper Keys beauty and its Businesses.

Filming on location (dock side) plus producing & editing of the show & its commercials can be challenging, especially when you consider everyone has real jobs, families & other obligations.

The support of my wife ("Rosie The Magnificent") & family, great efforts of the production team, (of the "Speardivers Show") and all the help from the station (WEYW) have made the program possible. Everyone has committed to creating the best show possible & we strive to make every episode better than the last. With continued upgrades to equipment by learning from our experiences we are determined to take the Keys Kitchen" to a national audience this coming season. With your continued support, involvement and recommendations we hope to soon be sharing a little of our Flavorful, Fun, Funky & Fabulous FL Keys with new friends far and wide!

"Cook With Love & Share" Chef Buck Naked

Key Largo Rotary and members of Monroe County Sheriff's Office joined together in February to clean up the US1 area. Bags of garbage were collected to ensure our Fabulous Florida Keys are beautiful for residents and visitors.

Entertainer of the Month: The Blues Pirates

Moss is originally from Seattle Washington and holds a great deal of notoriety locally as a rock-and-roll blues guitar player who has played for 50 years. Moss was the long-time lead player for Big Dick and the Extenders. He lived down the street from Jimi Hendrix's parents. He played golf with Willie Nelson and saw Hendrix in '68 (when he jumped a fence to get in!). Moss plays a 1978 Gibson Les Paul custom guitar through a 100 watt Fender Hot Rod amp.

Sam Maher is an accomplished bassist and guitarist who plays bass in the band but can also be seen around town playing pedal and lap steel guitar or singing and playing acoustic guitar. Having played since the age of seven, Sam began performing in a bar when he wasn't even legal drinking age. "If you're old enough to play in my bar you're old enough to drink in my bar," said the owner.

Maher is a veteran of at least a hundred Grateful Dead concerts and he has played in opening slots for numerous well-known national touring acts. He performed on the road in much of the Midwest where he grew up, and in Europe. His main influence is his friend and one-time mentor Pete Way from the English rock band UFO. Maher plays a 1974 Rickenbacher and an Epiphone Thunderbird bass guitar through Hartke HA4000 with 400 watts through Hartke and GK 4x10 speakers at 4 ohms.

Noted drummer supreme of Key Largo, Jimmy McGuirl is a trained jazz drummer and was just featured as Entertainer of the Month in the Coconut Telegraph's February issue. He plays Gretchen drums.

Arias Beardslee on blues violin is originally from Northern California, studies at the Berkeley School of music and lives in the Keys. Arias is a noted guitarist and songwriter in his own right and is currently finishing a solo album. Influenced by Caesar Clements and Papa John Creech, Beardslee has played on the streets of Oakland and San Francisco as well as at the Grand ol' Opry.

He plays a vintage Gibson violin through a 1969 Fender twin amp.

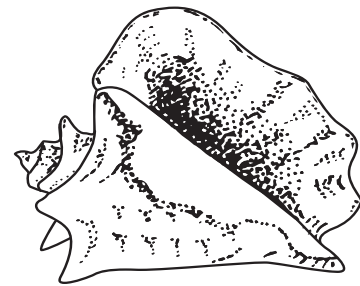

The band depends on Norman Tyndale for sound. Tyndale is a native of Jamaica and owns and operates Overseas Computers in Key Largo.

The Blues Pirates have been together for almost 2 years and have one basic theory. Let's party, have a good time and rock and roll!

"If you want to party with the band, that's cool. You may have to pick us up or take us home. But seriously no elitist b.s. We don't want anyone to kiss our rear end. We want to rock and roll and have a good time. And, we actually really like what we stand for. We are part of a larger musical family which includes our good friend Ray West, who is the 5th Blues Pirate on flute and guitar and also a member of Marlin 2 Review (whose Chris Miller can be seen knocking a few back with the boys at our shows or sitting in)," says Maher.

The Blues Pirates play somewhere every Friday and Saturday night in Islamorada and are available for gigs at bars, restaurants, weddings and bar mitzvahs in the Florida Keys.
