Beware of TITS - Traffic Induced Tourette's Syndrome

Definition: Tourette's (too-RETs) syndrome is a nervous system (neurological) disorder that starts in childhood. It involves unusual repetitive movements or unwanted sounds that can't be controlled (tics). For instance, you may repeatedly blink your eyes, shrug your shoulders or jerk your head. In some cases, you might unintentionally blurt out offensive words.

Tourist season is here in full-blown glory and it is bigger and better than ever. Although we dearly love the visitors who support our businesses and in turn keep our pay checks flowing, at times the added traffic can disrupt our laid back, easygoing lifestyle.

Construction road blocks in the south lane and north lane can sometimes take you a half-hour or more to go 5 miles. Some find our one road, US 1, difficult to navigate and they cause accidents that mess things up for all drivers. Those of us who have lived here the longest prepare for that, and drive leisurely anyway.

High strung people who live life in the fast lane just can't handle it. Before they know it they are honking their horn like a Miami moron motorist, arm hung out the window twitching with the universal WTF sign. Before they know it an uncontrollable barrage of offensive words spew out of their mouths in the privacy of their vehicle (hopefully!).

Even nice church ladies have been known to projectile vomit obscenities that would make your hair curl. Saying things like "Go suck a bats bung hole you ass clown!" "You asshat thumper!" and "Bubbabbbbbbutthole!" That's when you know for sure you have a bad case of TITS.

That's Traffic Induced Tourette's Syndrome. There is no known cure. Depending on the severity of your TITS, it is possible that you may need to get the TROTS. That is Tourist Related Offense Tactical Solutions. You can get the TROTS just from reading the Coconut Telegraph. We are full of it! Our best TROTS advice is to leave your car at home and take a bicycle, boat, taxi cab, call a friend or just walk to the nearest bar. Order a drink. Consume. Repeat. Now, don't you feel better?
